

Acknowledgement

First and foremost, I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my advisor, Dr. Sushmita Jha for her incredible support and guidance. It has been an honour to be her first PhD student and contribute towards the establishment of our Advanced Biosciences and Neuroscience laboratory. I am thankful for her continued belief, patience, motivation and inspiration throughout my PhD journey.

My advisor always encouraged me to perform good research, make best of available resources, and perform every experiment as a final one. I gratefully acknowledge her constant efforts to instill good research values, skills and ethics in me. With her contagious joy, optimism and enthusiasm for research, I have loved each and every moment spent in our laboratory. Her openness to research discussions, assent to new ideas and collaborative research, honed my research aptitude and lab working skills. I wholeheartedly appreciate all her contributions for time, discussions, experiments and funds for research. Even during the tough times, she inspired me to recommence my personal and professional purposes. I could not have imagined having a better supervisor and mentor for my PhD journey.

I am grateful to my committee members, Drs. Amit Mishra, Ananya Debnath, Ganesh Bagler, Karunakar Kar and Satyajit Sahu for their timely guidance and evaluation of my research work. Their valuable inputs and suggestions facilitated my research progress and allowed me to grow as a research scientist.

Sincere thanks to my research collaborators, Drs. Ananya Debnath and Sushmita Paul for believing in my abilities and reinforcing my research aims. The collaborative work performed under their guidance has broadened my knowledge and research skills. They have always answered my queries and guided me when in doubt.

I am thankful to my IITJ family, Parveen, Manju, Ridhi, Vivek, Varsha, Swetha, Arvind, Pallavee and Shashank Sir for their immense love and support. Thank you to my lab members and friends, Shalini, Miti, Samyuktha, Dipti, Shivanjali and Ishan for their encouragement, communion and cherishing memories during this amazing journey of PhD. I also want to thank, Bharat Pareek and Mohan Mukesh Malviya for their technical support and assistance. I want to thank my colleagues in the Department of Bioscience and Bioengineering for their insightful questions and fruitful discussions during our departmental seminars and presentations.

The strong positive attitude, loving nature and optimism of my parents always motivated me to pursue my personal and academic interests. I would like to thank my beloved family, my grandparents for their unconditional love and support, my wonderful aunts and lovely cousins for their never ending love, my parents for their strong belief in my decisions and my brothers, Dr. Himanshu Sharma and Dr. Neeraj Upadhyay for being my strength and inspiration. I am grateful to my senior, Mukesh K. Saini and best friend, Jai Prakash Kushvah for their continued guidance, support and belief in my passion towards science.

The thesis completion marks the blessings of my god and spiritual guidance of my guruji during my PhD journey.

Nidhi Sharma

Ph.D. Student